FORT MASON CENTER

AT FORT MASON
CAPITAL CAMPAIGN

FOCUS: WORLD MUSIC SHOWCASE AT FORT MASON

The At-Fort-Mason Capital Campaign is a two-year, $7.5 million fund-raising campaign to complete ten major renovations projects within the historic piers and buildings of Fort Mason Center. The ten projects will preserve this National Historic Landmark, and create new and refurbished spaces for the increasing cultural activity occurring here.

The small cabaret hall on the third floor of Building C has seen it all. In the past nine years this intimate theater has hosted Pete Seeger, Kate Wolf, the Klezmorim, and Grammy winner Queen Ida and the Bon Temps Zydeco Band. It has become known as a place to see everything from flamenco dancing to Balinese puppetry.

Under the At-Fort-Mason Capital Campaign plan, this 5,000-square-foot space will be renovated so extensively, it will be renamed the World Music Showcase. It will provide a greatly needed improved home for the presentation of concerts, performances, and special programs from around the world, for the promotion of international cultural exchange, and for the preservation of the artistic traditions of all nations.

Over the years, patrons of this theater have been presented with a rainbow of musical styles and sounds, including Bluegrass, Indian sitar, Celtic flute, and Folklorico. They have watched, and danced along with, the traditional dances of Laos, Brazil, Russia, Appalachia, Africa, and Mexico. Performing groups with names like Troika Balalaikas (Eastern European music and dance) have given local audiences a lot more than new words to pronounce. Hedzoleh Soundz, the top contemporary group of Ghana, gave its first performances in the Bay Area at Fort Mason. And Li Guang-zu, master lutist of the Beijing Philharmonic Orchestra, was presented in a special Chinese New Year Celebration at Fort Mason.

The new World Music Showcase will be specially designed to accommodate varying performance styles, with flexible seating for up to 250 people. Portable seats may be combined with small tables for a cabaret setting, or placed in rows for a standard concert setting. For dances or large group performances, seats may be cleared to the sides for a theater-in-the-round setting.

A professional sound system able to serve many programming needs will be installed. Existing flooring will be replaced by a durable, handsome surface. A new stage, scenery grid, and lighting grid will replace current facilities. A lobby and concession area for the Showcase will be created, along with a management office and box office.

Linkage of the World Music Showcase to other public spaces at Fort Mason will be an important part of the Capital Campaign plan. Renovations will include elevator upgrading, improvements to common lobby and entrance areas, and new directory signage.

The World Music Showcase is just one component of the Capital Campaign's Theaters at Fort Mason project, which will improve all of Fort Mason's existing theater spaces, and create the new Bayfront Theater in Pier 2. The improvements made to these diverse spaces will allow Fort Mason to continue to offer well-equipped facilities at low cost to performers and audiences. For more information about the At-Fort-Mason Capital Campaign, call 441-3400.

FMC UPDATE

Sailing Education Adventures The Oceanic Society is concerned with protecting the ocean and its creatures. First-hand experience with the elements of wind and water, with the environment of the bay and ocean, helps to foster this concern. The Society presents Sail Training courses, made possible by members volunteering their boats and time, to accomplish this. Offered in June: Beginning Sailing, concentrating on basic skills—learning to recognize wind directions, sail trim, sailing on all points of sail, tacking and jibing, docking, basic knots, small boat safety, rigging and care of a small boat and equipment; Intermediate Sailing, helping the student to work in harmony with the elements of wind and tide—sail theory, balancing the boat, steering without a rudder, anchoring, man overboard procedure, and rules of the road; and Sailing for Women, recognizing the need for women to develop self-confidence and knowledge in a noncompetitive atmosphere, from women instructors. For children ages 11-14, there is Sail Camp, a two-week day camp concentrating on rowing, sailing, boating safety and related activities. For details, call 441-5970.

High Tea On The Bay A dance party featuring seven decades of music, High Tea begins with 18-piece City Swing and vocalist Gail Wilson performing music of the Big Band era, and continues with D.J.'s Bruce Gatta and Odis Campbell and the recorded rock/disco hits of the '60s, '70s and '80s. It takes place June 1 from 3pm to midnight in Pier 3, presented by Men Behind Bars Productions, as a benefit for Coming Home Hospice and future MBB productions. MBBP has raised thousands of dollars for such groups as Gay Games II, the San Francisco Band Foundation, and many of the AIDS-related organizations in San Francisco, with their annual Men Behind Bars variety shows and Pier Pressure dances. Admission is $12 advance, $15 at the door. For information, call 621-6476.

National Marine Sanctuary Program The keynote address for the International Marine Protected Area Management Seminar will be given in Fort Mason's Conference Center on June 12. The address, open to the public, features a presentation by Graeme Kelleher, chairman of Australia's Great Barrier Reef Marine Park Authority. The theme of the seminar, for government officials responsible for marine protected areas around the world, is the management of marine areas, including sanctuaries, national parks, wildlife and fisheries reserves, and maritime historical monuments. The seminar is intended to encourage an exchange of information on the problems facing marine protected areas, and the emerging policies and approaches available for their management. For information about attending the keynote address, call Nancy Stone, 556-3509.

Stars For Kids Celebrity Auction Youth Advocates, Inc. will auction memorabilia from music, movie, TV and sports stars in Pier 3 on June 21. Hosted by KFRC's disc jockeys and comedian Michael Pritchard, the show begins at 6pm with performances by top star comedians. The auction begins at 7:30pm, followed by music and dancing with a San Francisco Star Rock Band from 9pm until midnight. Auction items include Kenny Rogers' tour jacket, George Thorogood's stage costume, and surprise items from The Starship, Journey, Lena Horne, Carol Burnett, and Ed McMahon. Sports memorabilia from the 49ers will be sold, and special guest appearances are scheduled. Food and drinks will be sold. Sponsored by KFRC, all proceeds benefit Huckleberry House I and II and Nine Grove Lane. Youth Advocates offers crisis shelter and services to homeless and runaway youth. Tickets at BASS outlets. For information, call 668-2622.

The Great San Francisco Bike Adventure This pleasure ride, organized by the Golden Gate Council of American Youth Hostels, Inc., begins at 7:30am on June 8 at the Presidio Parade Grounds and ends with a picnic celebration at 11am on the Great Meadow at Fort Mason. Along the 20-mile route, cyclists will take in the best views of San Francisco as they ride city streets and highways, closed to motor vehicles for the event. Buses and trucks will follow the ride to pick up people whose bicycles (or bodies!) are unable to go the full route. The pace will be friendly and relaxed, and bicyclists of all ages are welcome. There will be complimentary refreshments for ride participants, and a variety of food and beverages for sale, plus music and prize drawings. Non-cyclists are also encouraged to bring picnic baskets and meet their cycling friends and family on the Great Meadow (parking at Crissy Field). All participants will receive a day-glow orange safety vest. Funds raised will go towards a second San Francisco hostel. Registration is $10 for ages 13 through 64, $5 for under 13 and over 64. The picnic celebration is free. For information, call 393-3199.

10TH ANNUAL FREE FOLK MUSIC FESTIVAL

How would you like to be a star performer at a music festival? Well, there's nothing to it. Everyone is a participant at the 10th Annual Free Folk Music Festival; all are encouraged to bring instruments, voice and dancing feet, and to become involved with Festival events. This is truly a "do it yourself" affair.

Mayor Dianne Feinstein has issued a proclamation honoring the Festival and declaring June 1 through 8 as Folk Music Week in San Francisco. The climax of a week of assorted events throughout the Bay Area, the Folk Music Festival takes place at Fort Mason on the weekend of June 7 and 8.

The purpose of the Festival is to encourage people to create their own music through workshops on various instruments, song styles, and dance, and to give them perhaps their first chance to perform on a concert stage before an audience.

The continuous workshops will be many and varied. If you bring an instrument, you can choose among classes in tin whistle, banjo, mandolin, harmonica and guitar in many different musical styles. Anyone can join the workshops in singing and dancing. This year's vocal highlights include past favorites like choral and gospel singing, storytelling and children's songs, plus new entries such as singing in Africa, songs of aging, racism and sexism in music, and political songs. In the dance category, join in with Contra, English Country, Irish and Square dancing, as well as special sessions for Swing and Jitterbug.

For those who wish to listen, there will be a nonstop concert from noon until closing each day. It will be a great opportunity to hear and see some of the finest performers, well-known and unknown, to come out of the Bay Area.

There will also be vendors selling crafts and music-related items, as well as a delicious selection of edibles.

The San Francisco Folk Music Club, one of the largest and most active folk music organizations in the country, gives the Festival each year as its gift to the City of San Francisco, in cooperation with the San Francisco Folk Music Center and the Fort Mason Foundation.

The Festival takes place in Buildings A and C, 11am to 11:30pm on Saturday, 11am to 7pm on Sunday. Admission is free, and all facilities are wheelchair accessible. For information, call 661-2212
